“Dedicated to excellence in classical education.”

Welcome to Easy Classical! Thank you for choosing us to help you home school. Whether you are brand new to homeschooling or have been homeschooling for many years, we hope that you will find our Easy Classical daily schedules to be a great help.

How do I get started? Included in your packet is an “Instruction Sheet” (to help you to know how to use your schedules), an Icon Sheet (which explains the meanings of the icons placed in your schedule), 36 week-long, day-by-day schedules, and various forms and helps that can be photocopied for use with your second grader.

The instruction sheet lists the subjects, in bold, that are included in this year’s study (they are in the same order as on your schedule sheets). Under each heading is the particular book or curriculum that is recommended for use in this subject. After each recommendation are general directions for that particular subject. This will guide you in your daily use of the schedules.

The framework of these schedules is structured around the recommendations of Susan Wise Bauer’s book The Well-trained Mind: a Guide to Classical Education at Home. We recommend that you read this book to give you a foundation on which to base this year’s study. It will also give you a better understanding of how to use the sheets and helps that we have provided in your packet. We have also incorporated recommendations from Veritas Press and several other classical homeschooling websites. You will find their website addresses and other information throughout your materials.

We pray that God would use our schedules to enhance the learning of your children, and that He will give you extra time during the year to spend with your spouse, your family and your friends.

Thanks for choosing us to help you!

NT, Greece, and Rome Instruction Sheet

Directions: Prior to beginning your year, read The Well-trained Mind: a Guide to Classical Education at Home. Read the section entitled “The Grammar Stage”. This will give you a framework in which to base this year’s schooling. You will not be able to accomplish everything she suggests in her book, however, so don’t get overwhelmed! Use her suggestions in the “How to Do It” section for history chapter in her book to set up notebooks for your child. After you have an understanding of the classical method of education begin looking through all of the enclosed materials, please keep in mind that you may not be able to do EVERY assignment EVERY week. That’s OK! Unexpected things happen, and if you need to skip an occasional assignment, feel free. This year is especially jammed packed with a variety of projects and lessons. Feel free to choose the project that best suits your child. If (s)he is a kinesthetic learner, do more of the hands on projects. If your child is more of a visual learner use the pictures and map projects to aid in learning. If (s)he is an auditory learner make sure you focus on the reading that is scheduled. There are a variety of projects placed in the schedule to give you flexibility and a variety of choices. Do not get bogged down in trying to complete all of the projects. Only use these as an aid to learning. The first four years are building block years, and you are laying the foundation for future study.

With these thoughts in mind, open to “Week 1~Schedule”. Write the date in the top left hand corner of the sheet. Look across each row. The first row tells you which week’s schedule you are working with. The second row lists the days of the week. Under the days of the week you will notice a row highlighted in blue. The blue row is your subject heading. The rows under the blue rows are the books and assignments for the week. Look down each column. In the first column you have a listing of each book you will be using during this week. At the top of the second column is Monday. If you scan down the Monday column you will see the assignments scheduled for the day. Check off each assignment as you complete them. Move to Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and then Friday as you complete the tasks during the week. Continue to check off the tasks as you complete them. This will give you and your child a sense of accomplishment as well as help you keep track of what you need to finish. And you can be confident that you are accomplishing enough each day that you will reach your goals by the end of the year!
